CIS / SECTOR OVERVIEW

CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY SCHEME

The Construction Industry Scheme (CIS) is specifically designed to provide workers operating in the sector with a compliant payroll mechanism whereby tax contributions are deducted at source prior to receiving their net pay. The scheme has numerous advantages not least ensuring that a worker's tax affairs are managed on a continuous basis thus avoiding large liabilities at the end of any given tax year.

Unlike many other providers, Jones Howard's CIS provision is a stand-alone function solely focussed on delivering a dedicated payroll service that is fully integrated with every aspect of the scheme. Both our business development and back-office teams have extensive experience of explaining and implementing the scheme to benefit all those entities within the relevant CIS supply chain.

Jones Howard covers all CIS sectors including construction, rail and engineering, plus a myriad of occupations carried out by sub-contractors operating in the building and maintenance industry. All of our processes and procedures are fully compliant with all facets of the scheme, including transparent gross to net calculations and demonstrable submissions to HMRC.
